

STAGE SEVEN • HARD SKILLS

FIRSTS

COMPLETION CRITERIA

What counts as done, and how it triggers the Stage Seven credential

A Citrus Edition Facilitator Resource • Companion to the FIRSTS Manual

BY AYOMIDE AYENI

FIRSTS • Completion Criteria & Credential Trigger

Stage Seven • Hard Skills

PURPOSE

This document defines exactly what “complete” means for Stage Seven, at both the individual FIRST level and the full-stage level. Given this stage's scale — ninety FIRSTS across two Templates workbooks — the facilitator sign-off process below is deliberately built around spot-checking rather than a full line-by-line review, which would be impractical at this volume.

Per-FIRST Standard

STANDARD

A FIRST counts as complete when the corresponding Templates worksheet (Part 1 or Part 2, depending on which half of the stage it falls in) has a genuine, specific answer in every required field. For FIRSTS involving an external or ongoing action (K52's time tracking, K80's journal, K90's showcase attendance), completion requires the actual action, not just a plan to do it.

Stage-Level Completion Checklist

- All 90 Templates worksheets (across both Part 1 and Part 2 workbooks) completed with genuine, specific answers.
- Attendance or async completion confirmed for all 13 sub-sessions.
- At least one ongoing-practice FIRST (K23, K52, or K80) shows genuine entries across an extended period, not a single data point.
- A completed Hard Skill Development Plan (K60) naming specific, prioritized growth areas, grounded in the honest Self-Assessment (K56).
- One specific hard skill named at the stage close as a genuine, ongoing commitment.

Facilitator Sign-Off

Given this stage's scale, facilitators should spot-check completion by section rather than attempting a full line-by-line review of all ninety worksheets at once. Confirm each section's most externally-checkable artifact specifically: the K37 mini project's actual completion, K59's portfolio item, and K82's multi-tool project. A worksheet claiming completion without the corresponding real artifact should not be marked complete.

Credential Trigger

HOW THE BADGE WORKS

Upon facilitator sign-off, the participant's record is marked "Stage Seven Complete" in the program tracker, which triggers the Stage Seven digital badge. Given the genuine scale of this stage, consider recognizing it distinctly in program communications — completing the largest stage in the curriculum is a meaningful milestone worth acknowledging beyond the standard badge.