PURPOSE

This document defines exactly what “complete” means for Stage Three, at both the individual FIRST level and the full-stage level, and how completion connects to the program's credentialing system. Because this stage's centerpiece exercise (the Mock Interview) is a live, ephemeral event rather than a static document, completion depends partly on facilitator observation and participant self-report, not only reviewable worksheets.

Per-FIRST Standard

STANDARD

A FIRST counts as complete when the corresponding Templates worksheet has a genuine, specific answer in every required field, and for FIRSTS involving real-world action (C3's A/B test, C18's referral outreach), when that action has genuinely been taken or attempted, not just planned.

Stage-Level Completion Checklist

- All 20 Templates worksheets completed with genuine, specific answers (see per-FIRST standard above).
- Attendance or async completion confirmed for all 3 sessions.
- At least one completed mock interview (FIRST C10) with documented, honest feedback received.
- A real or realistic offer comparison matrix (FIRST C20) completed, even if hypothetical for participants without an active offer.

Facilitator Sign-Off

The facilitator reviews each participant's completed Templates workbook against the criteria above, with particular attention to the Mock Interview (C10) actually having occurred with genuine feedback documented, not just planned. Spot-check for genuine specificity rather than technical completion.

Credential Trigger

HOW THE BADGE WORKS

Upon facilitator sign-off, the participant's record is marked "Stage Three Complete" in the program tracker, which triggers the Stage Three digital badge. As with every stage, badges accumulate visibly; the full-program certificate is issued only once all 16 stages are marked complete.
