Stage Sixteen • Workplace Professionalism & Workplace Readiness / Professional Ethics & Integrity

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

This guide is for whoever is facilitating Stage Sixteen, live or on video, individually or in a cohort. It sits alongside the FIRSTS Manual and Templates workbook — it does not replace them.

Stage Sixteen combines two source categories into forty-five FIRSTS across five sections: Workplace Fundamentals, Navigating Workplace Situations, and Performance & Professional Identity (the workplace professionalism material), followed by Ethical Foundations & Responsibilities and Applied Ethics & Integrity Reflection (the ethics material). Each FIRST below gets a Learning Objective, Key Talking Points, and Common Misconceptions to Preempt.

This is the largest single stage in the facilitator library, at forty-five FIRSTS. Expect five full sessions rather than three, and budget genuine time — several FIRSTS in Sections 4 and 5 (Integrity Decision, Accountability Under Pressure, Professional Honesty Challenge) ask participants to sit with real discomfort, not just complete a worksheet quickly.

SESSION 1

Workplace Fundamentals

Covers FIRSTS T1-T9

FIRST T1

Workplace Orientation

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify one workplace expectation or policy they're still unsure about and ask a direct, clarifying question this week.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Entering a new role without genuinely understanding its expectations and culture leads to avoidable missteps.
- A deliberate orientation period exists specifically to prevent this — use it actively, not passively.
- This is the foundation for every other workplace professionalism FIRST in this stage.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming workplace norms will become obvious over time, rather than actively seeking clarity during the genuine orientation window when questions are most expected.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T2

Professional Workplace Routine

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants establish a consistent daily routine and follow it for one full week.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- A reliable daily routine reduces decision fatigue and builds a genuine reputation for consistency.
- Both matter significantly in a professional setting, often more than people initially expect.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Letting your workday be dictated entirely by whatever arrives first (emails, messages) rather than a deliberate routine you control.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T3

Workplace Etiquette Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants observe their workplace's real communication and meeting etiquette for a week and name a genuine norm they hadn't expected.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Workplace etiquette, while sometimes unwritten, genuinely shapes how colleagues perceive your professionalism.
- Violating it unknowingly can create real friction, even when unintentional.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming the etiquette norms from a prior role or context automatically transfer to a new one, without genuinely observing what's actually expected here.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T4

Professional Appearance Standard

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants confirm their specific workplace's genuine appearance norms through observation or a direct question.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Professional appearance norms vary significantly across industries and organizations.
- Genuinely understanding your specific context avoids both under- and over-dressing relative to actual expectations.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming a generic professional standard applies universally, without confirming your specific workplace's actual norms.

SUGGESTED TIME: 10 min

FIRST T5

Workplace Punctuality Habit

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants track their on-time consistency across commitments for one week.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Punctuality, though seemingly simple, is one of the most visible and consistently judged professional habits.
- Genuine consistency here builds trust that compounds significantly over time.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Treating minor lateness as inconsequential, without recognizing how genuinely it shapes early professional reputation.

SUGGESTED TIME: 10 min

FIRST T6

Workplace Accountability Practice

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants reflect on a real instance of taking genuine ownership when something didn't go as planned.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine ownership, distinct from simply completing assigned tasks, is what builds real trust with managers and colleagues.
- This matters most specifically when something goes wrong, not just when things go smoothly.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Completing assigned tasks without genuinely taking ownership of their actual outcomes, especially when something goes wrong.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T7

Workplace Ownership Experience

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants solve one small, real problem proactively, without waiting to be asked.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Waiting to be told exactly what to do for every problem limits your genuine value.
- Proactively solving problems within your own reasonable judgment builds real trust and capability.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Waiting for explicit instruction on problems genuinely within your reasonable judgment to just solve directly.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T8

Workplace Initiative

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify a genuine opportunity for improvement and propose or act on it.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Initiative that identifies genuine opportunities, not just fixes existing problems, is what distinguishes truly proactive contributors.
- This is a meaningful step beyond T7 — noticing what could be better, not just what's currently broken.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Only ever responding to explicitly assigned problems, missing genuine opportunities to improve something no one has yet flagged.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T9

Workplace Adaptation

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify one way their new workplace's norms differ from a prior context and describe how they've adapted.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine adaptation to a new organizational environment takes deliberate effort — it doesn't happen automatically just by showing up.
- This closes out the section by turning everything from T1–T8 into an honest reflection on real adjustment.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming your prior organizational context's norms and pace will transfer directly, without genuinely adapting to the new environment's actual reality.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

SESSION 2

Navigating Workplace Situations

Covers FIRSTS T10-T16

FIRST T10

Workplace Policy Review

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants read their organization's key policies and clarify any genuinely unclear point directly.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine familiarity with formal policies, not just informal culture, protects you from unknowingly violating a real requirement.
- Skimming isn't the same as absorbing — push for genuine comprehension, not just exposure.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Skimming policy documentation without genuinely absorbing the specific rules relevant to your actual role.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T11

Confidentiality Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify what specifically counts as confidential in their role and confirm the genuine handling requirements.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Mishandling confidential information, even unintentionally, can cause genuine harm to colleagues, clients, or the organization.
- Awareness prevents that harm before it happens — this is worth taking seriously even when it feels obvious.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming information is fine to share casually without genuinely confirming its actual confidentiality status.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T12

Professional Boundary

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify one boundary they've been avoiding stating and communicate it calmly this week.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Professional boundaries protect genuine wellbeing and sustainability without damaging relationships when communicated well.
- A calmly communicated boundary is itself a professional skill, not a sign of unprofessionalism.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Avoiding stating a genuine boundary out of fear it will seem unprofessional.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T13

Workplace Prioritization Exercise

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants navigate a real competing-demands situation, confirming priority with their manager rather than guessing.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Competing professional demands are inevitable; genuine prioritization, not treating everything as equally urgent, is a core skill.
- Confirming with a manager when stakes or ambiguity are genuinely high often reveals a different real priority than assumed.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Guessing at priority without confirming with your manager when the stakes or ambiguity are genuinely high.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T14

Workplace Escalation

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify what would genuinely warrant escalation in their role and confirm the appropriate person and process.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Knowing when a genuine issue exceeds your level to resolve, and escalating clearly, prevents both unnecessary escalation and dangerous under-escalation.
- This is a critical skill at every level, not just for senior staff.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Either avoiding a necessary escalation out of fear of seeming unable to handle things independently, or escalating vaguely without a clear ask.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T15

Workplace Mistake Recovery

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants reflect on their most recent genuine mistake and assess whether their recovery focused on ownership and the fix.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- How you respond to a genuine mistake shapes professional trust far more than the mistake itself typically does.
- Neither hiding it nor over-apologizing serves the actual fix — direct, prompt ownership does.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Either hiding a mistake hoping it goes unnoticed, or over-apologizing to the point of undermining confidence in the actual fix.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T16

Workplace Accountability Conversation

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants address a genuine missed responsibility directly, whether their own or a peer's, this week.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Not every accountability conversation happens top-down; this is a skill needed at every level.
- Avoidance usually lets the pattern continue and erodes trust more than the conversation itself would.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Avoiding a genuinely necessary accountability conversation out of discomfort.

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min

SESSION 3

Performance & Professional Identity

Covers FIRSTS T17-T25

FIRST T17

Performance Review

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants prepare specific examples of their own work and genuine questions before their next performance review.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- A formal review, engaged with genuinely rather than passively endured, is a valuable opportunity for real understanding.
- Preparation changes the entire quality of the conversation, from generic to genuinely specific.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Treating a performance review as something that happens to you passively, rather than genuinely preparing and engaging with it.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T18

Performance Improvement Plan

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants build a concrete plan with real milestones to address one specific performance weakness.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- A specific, concrete plan turns a genuine weakness from a vague worry into a trackable, actionable path.
- “Do better” isn't a plan — push for something with a real milestone and timeline.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Responding to a genuine weakness with a vague intention to “do better,” rather than a specific, trackable plan.

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min

FIRST T19

Workplace Feedback Request

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants ask a manager or colleague a specific, direct feedback question about their recent work.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Proactively requesting feedback surfaces genuine, timely insight that would otherwise wait months to reach you.
- Specificity is what separates a useful answer from a generic, forgettable one.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Asking vague feedback questions (“how am I doing?”) that produce equally vague, unhelpful responses.

SUGGESTED TIME: 10 min

FIRST T20

Workplace Recognition

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants reflect on a piece of genuine recognition they've received and identify what specifically led to it.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine recognition is a concrete signal your work is landing the way you intended.
- Reflecting on what specifically earned it is what lets you deliberately repeat it.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Receiving genuine recognition without reflecting on what specifically earned it, missing the chance to deliberately repeat it.

SUGGESTED TIME: 10 min

FIRST T21

Workplace Problem Ownership

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify a problem they've reported but not resolved and take ownership of following it through.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Reporting a problem without following it through to resolution leaves real work unfinished.
- Genuine ownership includes seeing it through, not just flagging it and moving on.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Considering your responsibility complete once a problem is reported, without following through to genuine resolution.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T22

Professional Reputation Audit

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants ask a trusted colleague to honestly describe their professional reliability and compare it to their own self-perception.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Your own self-perception often differs from how you're genuinely perceived; an honest audit closes that gap.
- This only works if the person asked is genuinely willing to be honest, not just flattering.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming your own self-perception of your professional reputation matches how you're genuinely perceived, without ever checking.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T23

Workplace Culture Analysis

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants observe real decision-making and conflict patterns for several weeks and compare them against the organization's stated values.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuinely understanding how an organization actually operates, beyond its stated values, helps you navigate it more effectively.
- Stated values and observed behavior often diverge in specific, instructive ways.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Taking an organization's stated values at face value without genuinely observing how it actually operates day to day.

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min

FIRST T24

Workplace Readiness Assessment

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants honestly assess their readiness across this section's FIRSTS, naming their strongest area and most significant remaining gap.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- An honest assessment of genuine readiness, not just an assumption of preparedness, reveals real gaps worth addressing.
- This closes the loop on the workplace professionalism FIRSTS built throughout this stage.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming readiness without honestly assessing it, risking being caught unprepared by a genuinely new responsibility.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T25

Professional Standard Statement

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants write a two-to-three-sentence professional standard statement based on their genuine workplace experiences.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- A genuine, self-defined standard helps you maintain consistent quality even when no one is explicitly checking.
- This closes Sections 1–3 of the stage; the statement should reflect real behavior, not aspiration.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Writing standards that sound impressive but don't actually reflect how you've genuinely behaved in real workplace situations.

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min

SESSION 4

Ethical Foundations & Responsibilities

Covers FIRSTS T26–T35

FIRST T26

Professional Ethics Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants review their organization's code of conduct and identify the genuine underlying principles beyond specific rules.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine ethical awareness, understanding actual principles, prepares you for situations no specific policy explicitly covers.
- This is the foundation for every other ethics FIRST in this stage.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Treating ethics as purely rule-following, missing the underlying principles that guide situations no specific rule explicitly addresses.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T27

Integrity Decision

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants reflect on a real ethical difficulty and honestly assess whether their choice aligned with their principles.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Ethical awareness alone doesn't guarantee ethical action; a genuine decision under real pressure is what proves character.
- This moves from T26's awareness into genuine, lived decision-making.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Rationalizing a genuinely unethical shortcut because it's convenient or because “no one would know.”

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min

FIRST T28

Conflict of Interest Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants review their organization's conflict of interest policy and identify what would genuinely require disclosure in their role.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Conflicts of interest can compromise genuine judgment even unintentionally.
- Awareness is what lets you recognize and properly disclose them before they cause real harm.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming a genuine conflict of interest doesn't matter if you believe you can remain personally objective.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T29

Confidential Information Responsibility

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants reflect on the most sensitive information they're currently entrusted with and confirm they're handling it with genuine care.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Protecting confidential information is both a policy requirement and a genuine ethical responsibility.
- Real trust is placed in you when sensitive information is shared — this extends T11's awareness into an ethical framing.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Treating confidentiality as purely a compliance checkbox, missing the genuine ethical weight of the trust actually placed in you.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T30

Data Ethics Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants reflect on a real data practice in their work and consider whether it's genuinely ethical, not just technically permitted.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Data, even when technically legal to collect or use, can be handled in genuinely unethical ways.
- This distinction matters increasingly across nearly every field, not just technical roles.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Treating “technically legal” as the same as “genuinely ethical” when it comes to data use.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T31

Technology Ethics Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants consider the genuine broader consequences of a real technology decision before implementation.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Technology decisions, even well-intentioned ones, can have genuine unintended social or professional consequences.
- This extends Data Ethics Awareness into a broader technology context.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Evaluating technology decisions purely on efficiency or technical merit, without considering genuine broader consequences.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T32

Intellectual Property Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants review their organization's IP policy and confirm their genuine understanding of ownership for their own work.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine IP awareness protects both your own work and respects others', preventing unintentional infringement or improper use.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming work created during a role automatically belongs to you personally, without confirming your organization's actual IP policy.

SUGGESTED TIME: 10 min

FIRST T33

Citation & Attribution Practice

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants explicitly credit sources or contributors in their next piece of work drawing on outside material.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine attribution is a foundational integrity practice that builds trust and respects others' real work.
- This directly extends T32's IP awareness into daily practice.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Presenting work as entirely your own when it genuinely builds substantially on others' sources or contributions.

SUGGESTED TIME: 10 min

FIRST T34

Professional Honesty Challenge

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify an uncomfortable truth they've been avoiding and communicate it clearly and professionally this week.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Honesty is easy when comfortable; genuine integrity is proven specifically when the truth is uncomfortable to share.
- Delaying an uncomfortable truth usually makes the eventual reckoning worse, not better.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Softening or delaying an uncomfortable truth to avoid short-term discomfort.

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min

FIRST T35

Ethical Dilemma Analysis

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants systematically identify the genuine competing values in a real ethical dilemma they've faced.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine ethical dilemmas, where multiple values genuinely conflict, benefit from systematic analysis rather than pure gut instinct.
- This closes Section 4 by turning everything from T26–T34 into a repeatable analytical practice.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Relying purely on gut instinct for a genuinely complex ethical dilemma, missing a more systematic consideration of the real competing values at stake.

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min

SESSION 5

Applied Ethics & Integrity Reflection

Covers FIRSTS T36–T45

FIRST T36

Compliance Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify the specific regulations or compliance rules genuinely relevant to their role.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine compliance awareness protects you and your organization from real legal and regulatory risk.
- This is distinct from, but related to, the broader ethical principles covered in Section 4.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming compliance is purely someone else's concern, missing genuine regulatory requirements that directly apply to your own role.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T37

Responsible AI Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify a specific ethical practice they genuinely apply when using AI tools.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- AI tools raise specific ethical considerations — accuracy, bias, appropriate disclosure — that didn't exist in the same form before.
- This is a genuinely new, rapidly relevant category of professional ethics.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Treating AI-generated content as automatically accurate or appropriate to use without genuine verification and disclosure where relevant.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T38

Privacy Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify what personal information they genuinely handle in their role and confirm their real privacy responsibilities.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Privacy, distinct from general confidentiality, specifically concerns individuals' personal information.
- This carries genuine ethical and often legal weight, extending T29's confidentiality focus.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Treating personal information casually because it's being used for a legitimate purpose, missing genuine privacy responsibilities regardless of purpose.

SUGGESTED TIME: 10 min

FIRST T39

Accountability Under Pressure

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants reflect on a real instance of pressure and honestly assess whether they maintained their genuine ethical standard.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Ethical standards are easiest to maintain without pressure; genuine integrity is proven specifically under real pressure to compromise them.
- This directly extends T27's Integrity Decision into genuinely high-pressure conditions.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Rationalizing a genuine ethical compromise because of real pressure, especially pressure from someone with authority over you.

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min

FIRST T40

Ethical Leadership Reflection

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants write one to two sentences defining the genuine ethical principles they want their leadership to demonstrate.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- A leadership philosophy grounded explicitly in ethical principles shapes how you'll genuinely lead when real ethical questions arise.
- This directly extends the broader Leadership Philosophy FIRST from Stage Twelve with a specifically ethical dimension.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Writing an ethical leadership reflection disconnected from your actual, broader leadership philosophy, rather than genuinely integrating the two.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T41

Professional Integrity Reflection

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants compare their recent real actions against their Professional Standard Statement from T25 and honestly identify any genuine gap.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine integrity means your actions consistently match your stated values, not just having good values in theory.
- Honest reflection is what reveals real gaps that develop quietly over time.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming your actions automatically match your stated values without ever honestly checking.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T42

Speak-Up Awareness

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants identify their organization's actual channels for raising a genuine ethical concern and the real protections in place.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Genuine ethical responsibility sometimes extends beyond your own conduct to speaking up about concerning conduct you observe in others.
- This should happen through appropriate, known channels — not left to guesswork in the moment it's actually needed.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Assuming you have no appropriate way to raise a genuine concern, without actually checking your organization's real speak-up channels.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T43

Ethical Decision Framework

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants build a simple, repeatable ethical decision framework based on their own real experiences from this stage.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- A repeatable framework helps you navigate genuinely difficult ethical decisions more consistently and confidently.
- Simplicity is what makes it usable in a real, live difficult moment — not theoretical complexity.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Building a framework too complex or theoretical to genuinely apply quickly in a real, live difficult moment.

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min

FIRST T44

Professional Responsibility Statement

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants write two to three specific, genuine ethical commitments based on their accumulated experience throughout this stage.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- A genuine, explicit ethical commitment, distinct from the broader professional standard from T25, keeps specific responsibilities visible.
- Specificity is what makes it genuinely guide a real decision, not just sound good on paper.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Writing an ethical commitment so generic it provides no genuine, specific guidance for real situations.

SUGGESTED TIME: 15 min

FIRST T45

Integrity Audit

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Participants review their practice across this entire stage and name their genuine strongest area of integrity and most significant remaining gap.

KEY TALKING POINTS

- Looking across a whole professionalism and ethics practice reveals genuine growth patterns no single FIRST alone would show.
- This closes out Stage Sixteen entirely — both workplace professionalism and ethics, not just the most recent section.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO PREEMPT

- Reviewing only the areas that feel comfortable, avoiding honest assessment of genuinely difficult or uncomfortable ones.

SUGGESTED TIME: 20 min
